Maurice Skillern's CD Messages "I Dreamed Tomorrow":

Maurice Skillern's CD of him personally reading from his book of poetic-philosophy "Messages" is now available. It is truly an interesting verbal ride along the mysterious pathways of the philosophical thoughts of this innovative thinker. Samples of the CD can be heard on Maurice's spoken word page on his website (Maurice Skillern's: spoken word page). The CD can be purchased from Baseline International Music's website (Baseline International Music).

You can also write to Maurice at his email address moskill@maurice-skillern.com . Maurice would enjoy hearing from you.

Testimonial:

Maurice Skillern's audio version of pieces from "Messages" is a moving reinterpretation of his work. For anyone who was touched by his book, the audio version adds a new depth, a new layer to his words. Hearing the author's own voice reading his work is a rich experience that allows listener an entirely different perspective, intensifying the message. Messages "I Dreamed Tomorrow", the CD, could stand alone, but instead now exist as a complement to the written work, offering a powerful event for an open mind.

Thanks, Kim

Baseline International Gear was added as a division of Baseline International LLC and it will handle all the clothing responsibilities of the group. The addition of these two new divisions will not cause any deviation from the high level of services that have been provided, but will facilitate a better rounded operational focus for the group as a whole. New events and up and coming projects:

Maurice Skillern and the Baseline International Companies will continue to forge ahead in offering new innovative products. A few of the projects we have in development are a new enhanced e-book version of the book "Messages". This project promises to be a groundbreaking innovation in the endeavor of creating interesting literature to be viewed on computer and handheld devices.

Also many of the pieces in the book "Messages" were written in a format to be stage acted. We are currently in early development of a DVD which will capture on film selected pieces from within the book being performed. This will offer a new exciting visual component to the "Messages" Line of products.
